

1. Overall, how much opportunity do you think the Government currently gives citizens to be engaged in decision making in...

	Much too much	Too much	About right	Too little	Much too little
Australia	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Western Australia	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

For the remainder of the survey, please respond in the context of Western Australia.

2. To what extent do you agree or disagree with the following:

	Strongly agree	Agree	No strong opinion	Disagree	Strongly disagree
We engage in too much consultation	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
We give too much weight to the people with the loudest voices	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
All people have an equal chance to influence community and public affairs	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
Most West Australians don't want to be involved in policy development and decision making	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
It is important to have citizens more involved than they are now in major planning and policy decisions	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
The relationship between community engagement and actual decision making is left unclear	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

3. To what degree can citizens realistically be expected to address complex public planning and policy issues in a thoughtful and objective manner?

Tick ONE option which BEST matches your views

Not at all	These are matters for elected officials and the experts they consult. Citizens don't (and can't) know enough about such matters.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Somewhat	Public input should be sought before officials make the final decisions.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Considerably	Citizens know a lot about local conditions and public values, and this information needs to be considered.	<input type="checkbox"/>
A lot	Adequately informed and engaged citizens should be included in public deliberations as valued peers in official decision-making.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Totally	I would trust the citizenry to make decisions more than I trust government or appointed experts.	<input type="checkbox"/>

4. Where do you think the final responsibility for complex planning and policy decisions should lie?

Totally with elected officials and / or experts	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Totally with citizens

5. When seeking input from the community, where do you think the balance should lie in the weighting given to the views of a) people directly affected by a particular issue versus b) the overall views of the total community?

Totally to the views of affected people and groups	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Totally to the views of the community as a whole

6. For each of these forms of community engagement, on a scale of 1-to-5 (where 1 is the best possible score): A) how well do you think we are doing at the moment?; and B) how important is it?

		How well	Importance
CONSULTATION	Officials understand how the public thinks
EDUCATION	The public understands official views and proposals
EMPOWERMENT	The public is empowered to make informed policy judgements
PARTICIPATION	People have a chance to participate and be heard
COLLECTIVE PROBLEM-SOLVING	Citizens, stakeholders and officials create better solutions together
LEGAL AUTHORITY	Citizens have a legal, institutionalised role in the policy-making process beyond voting for representatives (e.g., drafting or reviewing legislation, referenda, etc.)

7. What are the barriers to effective community engagement? Please tick the FIVE main barriers

	Tick 5
Getting citizens to participate and be involved in the process	<input type="checkbox"/>
Unbalanced media coverage of issues	<input type="checkbox"/>
Lack of accurate and complete information in the wider community	<input type="checkbox"/>
The resources in time, effort and cost involved	<input type="checkbox"/>
The technical skills required (eg: design, facilitation, surveys, logistics, etc)	<input type="checkbox"/>
Engagement being done too late in the process	<input type="checkbox"/>
Treated as a forum for protest rather than one for developing creative solutions	<input type="checkbox"/>
Balancing the interests of stakeholders and the whole community	<input type="checkbox"/>
Allowing enough time for sufficiently thorough deliberation	<input type="checkbox"/>
Lack of evidence of community input being valued and implemented in final decisions	<input type="checkbox"/>
Scepticism about organisations' motivations or agenda	<input type="checkbox"/>
Choosing an inappropriate engagement technique for the issue	<input type="checkbox"/>

8. How would you rate each of the following on a scale of 1-to-5 (where 1 is the best possible score): A) At the present; and B) How you would expect to answer the same question in 5 years time (2010).

	Now	2010
Community engagement results in better quality decision making
Community engagement results in greater acceptance of decisions in the wider community
Community engagement results in more efficient decision making and policy development
The right cultural environment exists in Western Australia to allow community engagement to work to its potential
Citizens want to be involved in community engagement projects
There are opportunities for me to use innovative community engagement techniques in my work
I am confident about trying innovative community engagement techniques in my work
